The suit has been decided in the in. ferior courts in her favor, and if she gains it she will be the richest woman in the world.

The School Meeting.

The meeting last night at the court house in favor of free schools was not in any sense a political meeting. It was presided over by Rev. C. W. Charlton and addressed by Hon. O. P. Temple, Rev. Mr. Russell and others. Col. Mariner was not present and did not speak. He knew nothing of being announced as a speaker, and did not desire to give it any appearance of being intended to bear upon the city election. We say this in justice to the gentlemen who addressed it, to Col. Mariner and to the cause of on last Thursday morning. Most of the books free schools, which we deem far above party or

The gentleman who wrote the poster and had it printed here labored under a misapprehension as to Col. Mariner's name.

Muskets for the College Cadets.

We learn that the College Cadets are very soon to have muskets from the State Armory at Nashville. Maj. Will. R. McBath has offered his services to secure and forward them. We are glad to hear this, as it will enable the young men to show off better their precision in drill. Their marching on Monday was very creditable, and shows that Col. Mariner has not forgotten his tactical experience during the war. The Coionel was at the head of one of the best drilled volunteer regiments that ever went out from Ohio. His services in drilling the cadets were tendered the University, and are unrewarded-another proof of his public spirit.

The marching of the Cadets, which every one pronounces extra, was in part due to the fine music of the Mechanics' Band, which is fast becoming the Band, under the teaching of Capt. Williams.

Toe Benefits of Advertising.

Some say that it is no use for them to advertise-that they have been in one place of business all their lives, and everybody knows them. Such people seem to forget to take into consideration that our country is increasing in population nearly forty per cent. every ten years, and no matter how old the place may be, there are constant changes taking place; some move to other parts, and strangers fill their places. In this age of the world, unless the name of a business firm is kept constantly before the public some new firms may start up, and by liberally advertising in a very short time take the places of the older ones, and the latter rust out, as it were, | dec21-1m and be forgotten. No man ever lost money by judicious advertising. Subscribe for the CHRONICLE.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

Demonstration at the Court House Last Night.

Notwithstanding the short notice given, at the sound of the bell a large number of the friends of education assembled at the court house last night. On motion, Rev. C. W. Charlton was called to the Chair, and Prof. Bradford chosen Sec-

The Chairman explained the object of the meeting briefly, after which Rev. Mr. Russell was introduced to the audience by Judge Temple, who took the stand and made an exceedingly pertinent and well-timed address on the subject for which the meeting had been called. He advocated the system of free schools as superior to that of select or private schools, because they taught what was essential for practical, everyday life, while in the latter only certain branches were taught.

The speaker alluded to the advantages the South would derive from a thorough and well organized system of free schools in inducing immigration.

Hon. O. P. Temple was then called on. He appeared with reluctance, as an exciting municipal election was pending, and it might be construed into a political meeting. That, however, could not be the case with him, as he did not reside within corporation limits. He had decided political convictions, but if his party was opposed to the great free school system, he would repudiate party. His remarks were earnest, and must have carried conviction to the minds of his hearers. He advised voters to cast their ballots in favor of candidates who were strong free school men, regardless of their polities. Without egotism, as a property holder, he demanded to be taxed for the support of common schools.

It was a strange thing in 1871 to be disputing whether free schools should be established in Tennessee, when the fundamental principles of the government enjoined their establishment. He alluded to the action of the Pilgrims, who life, and is now the general emigrant ticket showing what the State of Kansas paid for free corporation offairs, and decidedly favorable to > Judge Temple's remarks were replete with incontrovertible facts and were listened to with the greatest attention ..

Loud calls were made for Messrs. Charlton and Mariner, whereupon the former gentleman invited Col. Mariner to come forward. Judge Andrews then arose and stated that Col. Mariner was not present. Mr. Charlton then addressed the audience, alluding briefly to his political career, and his efforts in the cause of building up the educational and agricultural advantages of the country. There had been too much opposition to the coming of Northern men in our midst, and he then and there throttled the narrow mindedness of it.

Calls were then made on Judge Andrews and Capt. R. M. Bearden. Judge A. then arose and pared to do all kind of job work on the shortest | invited Capt. Bearden to take the floor, when that gentleman came forward and stated that he was a friend of the measure under consideration and immediately retired.

Judge Andrews was again called for and gave a few apt illustrations of benefits to be derived from schools. Judge A.'s voice failing him, he took his sent, when the meeting adjourned.

[COMMUNICATED.] Greene County News.

A large and enthusiastic meeting, composed of our most substantial citizens, convened at the court house at Greeneville to take into consideration the bill now pending before the State Legislature which proposes to cede East from Middle and West Tennessee. R. M. McKee, Esq., was called to the chair and a secretary appointed, when Col. Crawford made an explanatory speech, and proceeded to show the great advantages that would arise from the separation. Speeches were made by Col. James Britton, Majors Pettibone and Henry, and much enthusiasm was manifested on the occasion. A vote was passed unanimously on the resolution presented, which embodied the object of the meeting. A desire was manifested that meetings be held in every county in this end of the State, expressing their desire to go in PLANTATION BITTERS will positively cure any form of intermittent fever. Travel through any region where the malady prevails, and all who have tried the preparation will tell you so. Thousands of families in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and on the borders of the Southern rivers and swamps, regard it as a specific for the complaint. Nothing could induce them to be without it; and they begin to take it regularly at the commencement of the Spring and at the close of Summer, as a safeguard against malaria. They show their wisdom thereby.
